THIS COUNTY IS IN LEAD FROM READY CASH CROP

Farmers Make Money on Cow, Sow and Hens Leaving Cotton Crop on Better Net Cash Basis, Department Representative Says

A check up of records put out by the Department of Agriculture shows that Wilbarger county furnishes some of the best examples in the South, showing what diversification of farm products will do, especially in the line of raising poultry, pigs and cows. Miss Ruth Goodfellow, Home Demonstration agent, said yesterday. Miss Goodfellow has secured some actual examples of such cases from among her club girls and from among farmers in the county.

It is true that there are not many farmers in the county who are diversifying their crops by growing all their own food, some vegetables and truck besides their cotton crop, but many of them are raising poultry products, pigs and cows. Miss Goodfellow said, and in time the Department of Agriculture through its agents P. D. Chaney, county farm agent, and Miss Goodfellow, hopes to have a majority of farmers in this county growing some side crops and raising all their own meat and feed besides marketing some, so that their main crop will be all net.

Here are a few of the concrete examples of side money on poultry by persons in Wilbarger county, the cases are being turned in to the Department of Agriculture:

Miss Marianna Covert, of Tolbert, sold $64.50 worth of fryers, $57.58 worth of culs, $18.50 from breeding stock and $190.51 in eggs. This totals $334.19 and Miss Covert has a stock of 279 chickens left.

F. E. Hutchins, of Harrold, who raises cotton also, made poultry a side line during the past year and sold $267 worth of eggs, $67.98 worth of fryers, $63.56 worth of breeding stock, all of which makes a total of $398.54, and he is starting 1924 with a stock of 150 pure bred pullets.

While some progress was made in the Welfare Drive Saturday, the committees at work are still working because the goal of $1250 needed has not been reached. The committees will continue in the field until the amount is subscribed, members of the Executive Committee said.

One check for $5 was received from California. A woman who takes The Record had read of the drive to be launched and mailed her check for the amount to Dr. E. L. Moore, chairman of the committee with the request that her name be withheld.

Cold weather is causing much suffering among the poor of Vernon, and there is a constant call for help. Dr. Moore and members of the Welfare Commission are very anxious that the drive be completed as soon as possible, so that funds will be available to help all worthy cases that come to them.

Stockholders of the Wilbarger County Fair Association met in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Friday afternoon and elected directors who in turn elected officers for the year 1924. Lon Byars was re-elected president.

Massie, treasurer.

The treasurers reports showed the fair last fall was entirely successful. Plans for the fair this year were not gone into, more than mere mention in a general way.

The directors discussed the tourist park and many of them appeared to be in favor of changing for tourists to stay in the park. No definite action on this matter was taken, however, and it was said it will come up for discussion at another meeting to be held at an early date. The tourist park matter has aroused considerable interest as the expressed sentiment of several directors in favor of making it a pay park, is directly opposite the policy that has been carried out in the past.

School officials said these remaining out of school will be given this week to enter if they have not reported when school opens next Monday morning, their names will be turned over to the peace officers who will be requested to bring them in under the Compulsory Education law.

Superintendent Dohoney said the school authorities do not want to be severe but the law compels all children under 14 years old to attend at least 100 days and that period started Monday. Unless they begin before next Monday, they will be brought in as the law requires.

The attendance at the High School Monday was 391, which is the largest in the history of the school. Four new pupils came into the High School at the beginning of the new term. The total attendance at all the schools was 1488 this morning. When all pupils who are supposed to attend are brought in it should reach about 1700 school authorities say.

BETTER GAME PROTECTION
URGED AS NECESSARY

That 50 per cent of the wild denizens of field and woodland will have paid with their life this year because of the use of the automobile in hunting is the statement of William T. Hornaday of New York City. That is to say, the modern hunter can easily cover far more territory than could be covered by the hunter who went afoot or followed after a horse. Dr. Hornaday says that four times the former area can be covered by the automobile hunter. The distinguished director of the New York Zoological Garden thinks that our wild game is doomed unless protective measures are adopted.

In addition to protective legislation, Dr. Hornaday would call on the good sportsmanship of the hunter, and the hunter go slow and reasonable toll, recognizing the right to life. He upholds the principle of self-interference legislation will not to preserve the birds of the air and the beasts of the field that have made this country of ours a hunter's paradise. The pump gun is a suitable for much useless slaughter of birds.

LOST AMONG THE SNOWS

ALICE BRADY NEARLY LOSES HER LIFE FILMING "THE SNOW BRIDE"

During the filming of Alice Brady's latest Paramount starring vehicle, "The Snow Bride," which comes to the Vernon Theater next Wednesday for a two day run, the star came nearer to death than she ever has been during her career as actress.

On location somewhere in the vicinity of Alberta, Canada, Miss Brady one day was separated from the rest of the company and, in endeavoring to find her way back, wandered farther than ever from the temporary village of La Paix, where most of the action of the production takes place.

At first Miss Brady was inclined to regard her position more as a joke than a serious matter, but on finding that she was really lost and with no way of communicating with the village, which lay, she knew not in what direction, she became quite alarmed and shouted for help. Her voice seemed to reach the ears of a "hunky" of a team of dogs, several of which appear in the picture. The animal let out a yelp, attracting the attention of Director Henry Kolker, who, on observing the dog's strange actions, released him. The animal bounded away through the gateway of the village. Kolker ordered several of his men to follow. They did so and after some minutes, they came upon Miss Brady, struggling in the deep snow.

Back in town, the star was soon brought around but was not allowed to continue work that day. When questioned, Miss Brady declared that it was a terrible experience and that just before the rescue party arrived, she felt as though she was going to "pass out entirely." The weather that day was forty below and inaction on her part would have meant being frozen.

This picture, which has met with the approval of critics everywhere, brings Miss Brady to the screen in a role for which she is especially suited. Maurice B. Evans plays the leading man's role opposite Miss Brady while the strong supporting cast includes Mario Majeroni, Stephen Gratton and Margaret Morgan.

Tips For Taxpayers.
If you are single and support in your home one or more relatives over whom you exercise family control, you are the head of a family and entitled, in your income-tax return for the year 1923, to the same exemptions granted a married person. These are $2,500 if the net income was $5,000 or less and 2,000 if the net income was more than $5,000. In addition the head of a family may claim a $400 credit for each person dependent upon him for chief support if such person is under 18 years of age or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective.

For example, a son supports in his home an aged mother and two sisters 14 and 16 years of age. His net income for 1923 was $3,000. He is entitled to an exemption of $2,500 plus a $400 credit for each dependent, a total of $3,700. While he pays no tax, he must file a return, because his net income was in excess of $1,000.

An exemption as the head of a family can be claimed by only one member of a household.

Office of Assessor
Sought by R. V. Parr
Former Tax Collector

R. V. Parr, well known citizen of Wilbarger County, and former Tax Collector, has announced as a candidate for County Tax Assessor, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

Mr. Parr says that he is qualified for the office, has lived in the county many years and is familiar with land values and other taxable property. He also declares that his work as Tax Collector for two terms made him familiar with all the details of preparing the tax rolls and other duties of the office of Assessor, and that he is well qualified to discharge the duties of the office of Tax Assessor in the event of his election.

In his announcement for the office, Mr. Parr says that, if elected, he will seek re-election for only one more term, believing, as he does, that it is fair to others not to seek to hold an office indefinitely. The support of the voters in the July primary will be appreciated and, if the majority of the people favor his candidacy, he promises to make every effort to make them a faithful and efficient officer, Mr. Parr states.

Cosi Fan Tutte Is Opera Booked Here February 6

The opera "Cosi Fan Tutte," (the school for lovers), will be at the Vernon Opera House the night of February 6.

The company is returning from a tour of the West and will sing in Amarillo the night before the Vernon date. Their next stop was to have been in Abilene but they will stop off here between the two dates. The Vernon Federated clubs will receive 5 per cent of the funds from the ticket sale.

In the cast are Miss Irene Williams Judson House Ellen Rumsey, Count Leo, Dee Hierapolis, Pierre Remington, Alfred Cablin and Miss Lillian Palmer at the piano.

The scenery is by Joseph Urian, scenic director of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company. The original costumes used by the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company and owned by William Wade Hinchshaw at a cost of $15,000 will be worn by the singers.

The opera is in three acts and a prologue. The date was secured by Vernon over other towns because of the work the women of the federated clubs did toward securing the series of programs brought here during the winter.

W. C. Alderman Is Seeking Re-Election as County Treasurer

W. C. Alderman has announced his candidacy for re-election to the office of County Treasurer, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Alderman declares that his experience in the office has made him familiar with all the details of handling the money and accounts for the county. In the last few years the work of the office of County Treasurer has been greatly increased on account of the road construction and other improvements which have been in progress, and the bookkeeping is far more complicated than was the case several years ago, he stated.

"I ask the people to investigate my qualifications and will appreciate the support of all who feel that they can conscientiously vote for me. The condition of my health will probably make it impossible for me to thoroughly canvass among the voters, but I want them to know that I will appreciate the office, if elected, and will see as many of the voters as I possibly can between now and the election," Mr. Alderman said.

PEACE PLAN IS MADE PUBLIC

BEST OF MANY THOUSANDS
IN $100,000 PRIZE CONTEST
JUST FINISHED

Following the offer of $100,000 by Edward Bok for the best plan whereby world peace can be maintained, the committee of awards has announced the following as the best plan submitted among the many thousands and are withholding the name of the author until the referendum vote:

1. Enter the Permanent Court. That the United States adhere to the Permanent Court of International Justice for the reasons and under the conditions stated by Secretary Hughes and President Harding in February, 1923.

11. Cooperate with the League of Nations, without full membership at present.

That without becoming a member of the League of Nations as at present constituted, the United States Government should extend its present cooperation with the League and pursue participation in the work of its Assembly and Council under the following conditions and reservations:

Safeguarding of Monroe Doctrine.
1. The United States accepts the League of Nations as an instrument of mutual counsel, but it will assume no obligation to interfere with political questions of policy or internal administration of any foreign state.

In uniting its efforts with those of other States for the preservation of peace and the promotion of the common welfare, the United States insists upon the safeguarding of the Monroe Doctrine and does not abandon its traditional attitude concerning American independence of the Old World and does not consent to submit its long established policy concerning questions regarded by it as purely American to the recommendation or decision of other Powers.

No Military or Economic Force.
2. That the only kind of compulsion which nations can freely engage to apply to each other in the name of Peace is that which arises from conference, from moral judgment, from full publicity, and from the power of public opinion.

The United States would assume no obligations under Article X in its present form, or under Article XVI in its present form in the Covenant, or in its amended form as now proposed, unless in any particular case Congress has authorized such action.

The United States proposes that Article X and XVI be either dropped altogether or so amended and changed as to eliminate any suggestion of a general agreement to use coercion for obtaining conformity to the pledges of the Covenant.

No Obligations Under Versailles Treaty.
3. That the United States will accept no responsibilities under the Treaty of Versailles unless in any particular case Congress has authorized such action.

League Open to All Nations.
4. The United States Government proposes that Article I of the Covenant be construed and applied, or, if necessary, redrafted, so that admission to the League shall be assured to any self-governing State that wishes to join and that receives the favorable vote of two-thirds of the Assembly.

Development of International Law.
5. As a condition of its participation in the work and councils of the League, the United States asks that the Assembly and Council consent—or obtain authority—to begin collaboration for the revision and development of international law, employing for this purpose the aid of a commission of jurists. This Commission would be directed to formulate anew existing rules of the law of nations, to reconcile divergent opinions, to consider points hitherto inadequately provided for but vital to the maintenance of international justice, and in general to define the social rights and duties of States. The recommendations of the Commission would be presented from time to time, in proper form for consideration, to the Assembly as to a recommending if act a law-making body.

Here is Vernon proof of their merit:

My back was so lame and sore I could hardly bend over. When I did stoop, such sharp pains took me in my back and across my shoulders I could hardly straighten. THE NEW HIGHWAY LAW.

Most of the objections to the new state highway law and the increased tax on automobiles are, The Record believes, based on misunderstanding of the purposes of the law and the ends it is intended to serve. Certain counties have filed suits testing the constitutionality of the highway act, which levies an increased tax on automobiles and takes over the maintenance of those roads which form a part of the state system of highways where it is agreeable with the County Commissioners.

Our roads are no longer purely local thoroughfares. In times past when there was very little travel between towns and different sections, except by train, it was a matter of indifference, for instance, to the people of Dallas County whether the roads in Wilbarger County were good or bad. The objection to the new law arises primarily because there are some who object to that provision of it which gives the State Highway Commission authority to spend money on road maintenance in counties other than those where the money was paid in. If this were not provided for under the law, there would be no occasion for levying a state tax on automobiles. If the law required all of the money to be spent in the counties where it originates there would be no necessity for burdening the Commission with the duty of maintaining the highways. It could be left to each individual county to levy such taxes for highway maintenance as seemed desirable to the people of each particular county.

This is the vital point in the law. It is the only basis in logic for its enactment. The thing which we must decide in Texas is whether we really want a highway system. State control is the only means of obtaining a connected system of roads. Most people who have studied the road question are of the opinion that the value of improved roads is determined very largely by the consideration whether they connect with other improved roads. The Fort Worth & Denver railroad would be of little or no value to the people of Wilbarger County if it had merely been built across Wilbarger County without reference to connections at the boundaries. Without connections into Fort Worth and Amarillo this railroad's usefulness would be destroyed. The same is true very largely of highways. The only way to get these highways connected up into a system that begins somewhere and extends somewhere is to transfer the control from local to state authority.

It is somewhat astonishing that leaders in a great county like Dallas should be among those who would make it impossible to have a state system of highways in Texas. Dallas and other large cities sustain very much the same relation to their surrounding territories that Vernon does to the rest of Wilbarger County. Suppose the citizens of Vernon should take the position that all the money derived from taxation on Vernon owned cars should be spent on the streets of Vernon. That would be the position that is being taken by certain citizens of Dallas.

Citizens of Dallas have a vital interest in the roads of Wilbarger County, just as Vernon has a vital interest in the roads in the most remote section of Wilbarger County. Dallas people make liberal use of Wilbarger County roads. One needs only to make a little investigation among those who travel over our roads to find proof of this statement. Every night hotels in Vernon have traveling men guests who have traveled from Dallas to Vernon over our roads and those intervening this city and Dallas. So it is with every other city in Texas and even other states. Automobiles are now the most common mode of travel. A Dallas automobile wears out a road in Wilbarger County just as much as a car of the same weight and class owned in Wilbarger County. If Dallas people use the roads of other counties why shouldn't they help pay for the building and maintenance of the roads in other counties?

Texas is a state and not a confederation of counties. The people of Texas are entitled to a system of highways. They need them. The new highway act merely places the burden of maintaining our highways, on those who use the highways, regardless of where they may happen to reside. The Record believes that is exactly where the burden of building and maintaining highways should be. It is not just to continue levying a tax on farms and other real estate to build and maintain roads for automobilists to wear out. Automobilists use the highways, and they wear them out in proportion to the use they make of them and the weight of their cars. The new highway act which includes both a gasoline and a car tax compels those who make use of the highways pay for them in exact proportion to the use they make of them. That is fair and just and it is to be hoped that the rest of the new law which has been instituted will result in a decision favorable to a highway system in Texas and against those who would keep Texas in the mud and cut her off from participation in Federal road funds.

THE NEW YEAR STARTS WELL.

The statements made by Vernon banks as to the condition at the close of business December 31, furnishes pretty conclusive evidence of the sound condition of the finances of the people at this time. The bank deposits showed a substantial gain over the condition at the close of 1922, and loans and discounts are lower than a year previous.

This is gratifying at the close of an unusually trying year. The crop year began with good prospects, followed by excessive rains which did much damage. These rains were followed in turn by a drought of unusual severity, followed again in the fall with excessive rains.

This condition naturally resulted in much uncertainty, which always has a very depressing effect on trade and business. Uncertainty always has an effect quite as depressing as unfavorable conditions. But the county has harvested a more valuable cotton crop than that of 1922 and conditions generally are better. The only difficulty with conditions at present compared with a year ago is that the prosperity is less generally distributed than is usually the case. Certain areas in the county this year made practically no crops, while others were blessed with good yields.

On the whole, however, the people of this county face the New Year in better condition financially and with better crop prospects than obtained twelve months ago, and there is every justification for a feeling of optimism.

TEXAS DISCOVERS HERSELF.

(By Photo K. Warner)
At least Texas has discovered herself. But even now there is a lot more in the discovery than she is conscious of. It reminds us of Columbus. He discovered a whole new world but did not know it. But he saved the ocean so that others might find it out in years to come. And that is what Texas has at least done. Texas has come to the conclusion that there is a West Texas. She has been a long time being convinced. But just let Texas get on the right trail once and she stays there as faithfully as Frank Norfleet.

For nearly half a century a few men and women have been trying to prove to Texas and the world that there was a great undeveloped empire out here with untold possibilities and wealth stored up in it awaiting the touch of the human hand and the human mind to transform it into homes and farms and schools and churches and towns and communities. One of the strongest proofs of this fact is that so many of the men who first came to this country are still here. Big, strong, noble men who never lost faith in their country. Today they are cattle kings and financial kings, city builders, State builders. There is no place where you can better develop real character than in a new country.

Two years ago the Panhandle Chamber of Commerce created what they called "The million inhabitants club." The mission of that club was to let the world (and Texas) know there was room for millions more people to come and make homes for themselves in this great country called the Panhandle.

of Texas. Every member of that club considered himself a committee of ONE to tell the story of the Panhandle everywhere they had a chance through the press or otherwise. It is quite probable that the most influential member of that club was Mrs. Mildred Cheney, editor of the Southwest Plainsman of Amarillo. The Southwest Plainsman is not a local paper in its circulation but is intended to carry the news of the Panhandle and West Texas to every State in the Union. It is a paper universally sought and read by the non-resident land owners of West Texas. And then they pass it on to their neighbors in other States. It is a record every week of the good things and the big things and the progress and development that is going on all the time in West Texas and the Plains. And the publicity of this one newspaper has brought thousands and thousands of inquiries to the different Chambers of Commerce throughout the country.

Then there is a man—a real man—up at Dumas, Texas, who has been accused of spreading the cultivation of cotton as far north as the North Pole and he is going fine for Dumas had a good crop this year and a new gin and Dumas is several miles north of Amarillo. And you know what Texas says about Amarillo and the North Pole. Amarillo and Potter County became a cotton market in 1923. And this year several of the cattle kings of Potter County are offering a break up their ranches for the purpose of making room for more home builders. That is what West Texas needs. And that is what West Texas and the Panhandle wants. More HOME BUILDERS.

And through the everlasting work of the West Texas Texas Chamber of Commerce the State of Texas has been convinced that there is a great undeveloped country going to waste within its own borders that ought to be used for homes for the people and Texas has joined in the work of populating this vast land. But Texas will also discover that those who have been living in this last for a long time years will be pretty particular about the kind of neighbors the State introduces to them.

There are two things of which West Texas is very proud and jealous. First is their COUNTRY and second is THEMSELVES. West Texas has the national reputation of being the highest typed and purest blooded Americans in the nation. And that standard will be most zealously guarded. West Texas wants a class of folks to come and cast their lives and fortunes with them who will be willing to carry on the same civic, social and educational program they have so bravely begun. The Panhandle and West Texas has no desire to become the dumping ground of a race of helpless people. If you are lazy and trifling you better stay where you are; for you would starve to death out there to begin with and freeze to death to end with if you are not willing to work and try to build a home for yourself. But if you want to build for yourself a home and a reputation, if you want to rear your family in one of the most progressive, one of the happiest and cleanest countries on the globe then get busy and building for them a home in West Texas.

There is no way to measure the new inspiration it has germinated in the hearts of West Texans to know that their State has at last recognized their worth. There are four great railroads in West Texas that have always had faith in the country. They are the Texas and Pacific, the Fort Worth and Denver, the Santa Fe and the Rock Island. Every one of these great roads built into and through the country years ago when there was nothing but the future and hope ahead. But there are still thousands of people yet isolated from any railroad market. We need more railroads to carry to market the products of our farms. The discovery of West Texas and the Panhandle by the State of Texas will go down in history as one of the greatest events of the year 1923. Such an event will inspire faith in the whole nation.

FARMER MUST MAKE HIS PLACE PAY MONEY

College Station, January 7.—Make the poultry keep the farmer and take the burden of keeping the poultry off the farmer is the slogan of E. O. Edson, extension poultry husbandman of the A. & M. College of Texas, for 1924. "Four things are directly chargeable to the loss for their failure to pay dividends," he said. "These are: Poorly bred stock, too small flocks, poor housing conditions, and poor feeding."

"If every farmer could be a breeder the problem of poor stock might be solved that way, but since this is impossible the best the farmer can do is to cull the flock, select outstanding layers to use in the breeding pens. Every county farm or home demonstration agent can supply the information for culling or instructions can be procured in bulletin form from the college."

"The average flock is far too small to even give a chance of return for effort and expense rendered. To pay, the farm flock must be of such size as to supply not only the home table but to afford something for sale to pay the feed bill. From 100 to 150 hens is the minimum to do this. It will be found just as easy to feed and care for a flock this size as one only half that size. There is no other animal on the farm that is more changeable with the weather than the hen. Hens may be laying heavily during the spring and if a norther strikes, egg production practically drops. If the birds had a warm comfortable house to protect them production would remain almost normal. And finally after the flock has been bred to lay, made of sufficient size to take care of consumption and still give a surplus for market, and taken out of the trees and off the fences and put into a comfortable house they must be fed the kinds of feed that it takes to make eggs. A hen cannot lay a half an egg. Hence she must have a balanced ration, one that will produce all the eggs."
